Smoler Bros. Has Big Navy Shirt Order

Revelation that Smoler Bros. Inc., garment manufacturing plant in South Bend has received a large contract for making shirts for the United States navy was made Saturday afternoon at a meeting of employes in the Smoler factory at 318 East Colfax avenue.

The announcement was made by Jerry B. Smoler, vice-president of the company, who said that delivery of the navy clothing would require some expansion of employment, with approximately 300 workers assigned to the new job.

Ensign Jay Renchard, U. S. N. R., of the Great Lakes naval training station, addressed the workers, stressing the urgency of getting clothing to equip the rapidly expanding sea forces of the nation.

The patriotic efforts of all workers were pledged to the navy by A. Plotkin, midwestern representative of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union, and Sam Glassman, business manager of the international organization's two local units, locals No. 76 and 366.

Mr. Smoler and A. A. Pols, plant superintendent, pointed out that the present expansion marks another in a series of advancements made by the industry, which was established in South Bend early in 1938. Exact size of the contract from the navy was not revealed, but it calls for delivery of hundreds of thousands of the jumpers within the next six months.

AREA STAFF PLANS MEET IN PLYMOUTH

Seek Enlistment of 10 Per Cent From Incomes.

The United States government, in an effort to raise additional war funds, today announced a special six-week pay roll savings drive to insure enlistment of 10 per cent of the nation's total income in war savings bonds.

Impetus for the drive, timed to get under way simultaneously in every community of the country, was expected to be given in a nationwide series of meetings in which treasury officials will meet with county and state war savings staffs. The largest sales and promotion campaign in history was taking shape under the slogan: "Top That 10 Per Cent by New Year's."

The treasury department hopes through voluntary investment in war bonds to stave off further victory tax or enforced savings plans.

Plan Meeting Tuesday.

War savings staff officials from northern Indiana will meet with treasury department representatives Tuesday morning at the Conservation club headquarters in Plymouth. At that meeting and at two others scheduled in central and southern Indiana plans for the bond drive will be divulged and discussed. Several from South Bend will represent St. Joseph county's war savings staff.

Major emphasis in the drive will be placed on the joint cooperation of management and labor to achieve the 10 per cent war bond goal among 30,000 wage earners. As the nationwide pay roll savings drive opens, treasury figures indicate that more than 21,000,000 workers are now placing an average...
